Southwest Center for Occupational and Environmental Health

1. Program Director – Total Worker Health
2. Faculty - Education and Research Center

$1,298,515 7/1/2015-6/30/2020

Occupational safety and health professionals' pre-doctoral training program focused on disease and injury causation and prevention in the workplace. Provides an interdisciplinary curriculum including principles of both epidemiology and occupational health. Student's coursework includes biostatistics, environmental and occupational health, epidemiology, and electives.

HIFT for Obesity Prevention, Fitness, and Health Promotion in Military Personnel

Consultant

$550,330 08/01/2014-07/31/2019

A cluster randomized controlled trial evaluating the efficacy of High Intensity Functional Training compared to traditional US Army Physical Readiness Training in a 6-month trial. Primary outcomes include changes in body composition, fitness outcomes using the Army Physical Fitness Test, and differences in training volume and injury incidence.

UTHealth, Office of Employee Assistance Programs (EAP)

Lunch & Learns

Principal Investigator

$3750 2.1.2019 – 8.31.2020

The Lunch and Learns, offered by the Nourish Program, will address the need to encourage and increase consumption of vegetables to reduce risk of chronic diseases and maintain health. This nutrition education intervention includes education and experiential cooking to increase self-efficacy to prepare and consume vegetables among UTHealth faculty and staff.

The Garden Club of Houston

Garden for Health

Principal Investigator

$3905 5.21.2019 – 5.20.2020

This project will provide novel garden based educational workshops for employees and students at UTHealth using the Holistic Garden of the Nourish Program. The goal is to increase: a) knowledge, skills and awareness of gardening and growing fruits and vegetables, b) knowledge of composting and organic gardening, c) knowledge of health benefits of eating fruits and vegetables and related cooking skills, and d) preference and intake of fruits and vegetables.
